

Nature & Travel Sketch Journaling

by Irene Brady

Techniques and tips to make sketching and journaling an integral part of your journey

There is a wonderful buttressed tree on that trail. The buttresses some 8-10' from top to end, extending out maybe 5-6'. The flanges are thin, only two to four inches wide for much of their length. Spiders and things live inside, I'll bet, and someday I'll explore properly.

The cicadas are getting in some extra licks before dark. The sun is sinking pretty fast and their volume rises as the sun sinks.

Agouti

Tree Buttresses
on the Rappel Trail